The International School of Hospitality Announces Award of CHT

Las Vegas, January 7, 2011, Timothy Lam, Executive Director of The International School of Hospitality has been awarded the Certified Hospitality Trainer (CHT) designation by the Educational Institute of the American Hotel & Lodging Association (AH&LA).

The CHT designation is one of the highest achievements awarded by the Educational Institute. To qualify for this distinction, hospitality professionals must demonstrate their skills and abilities through academic achievement and industry experience. The program required each candidate to complete a comprehensive examination which test skills in the areas of hotel operations, financial management, human relations, human resource management, and administrative skills. By completing the program, an individual proves their commitment and dedication to the industry and establishes themselves as attaining validated hospitality industry standards.

The International School of Hospitality is a proud supporter of the Educational Institute's highly recognized professional programs. "TISOH is one of a small number of schools that require all faculty members to be Certified Hospitality Educators," commented the school's Director of Academic Affairs Donnell G. Bayot, M.Ed CHE, "now with a CHT certified administrator on staff, it further demonstrates the school's commitment to excellence that students have come to expect."

The Education Institute is a nonprofit education foundation of the American Hotel & Lodging Association. It provides professional development opportunities for lodging industry employees at all levels who wish to advance their through independent student and professional certification programs.

About TISOH

In its fifth anniversary year, The International School of Hospitality (TISOH) was founded in 2005 by professors from the University of Nevada, Las Vegas. The mission of the school is to offer practical, short-term hospitality training programs developed for industry by industry. Along with class instruction, most courses include site visits and working internships. The school curriculum includes conference management and event planning, meeting & event catering, event design & production, hospitality leadership and supervision, wedding coordination and design, the art of concierge, art of food and beverage, hotel operations and hospitality human resources. Students may elect to study on site or enroll in TISOH's online courses. The school is an Academic Partner of the American Hotel & Lodging Educational Institute.
