The International School of Hospitality Attracts Diversified International Group

Las Vegas, September 26, 2011 – The current fall semester at The International School of Hospitality (TISOH), a continuing-education school developed by the hospitality industry for industry, welcomed students from the Bahamas, Brazil, Canada, Cayman Islands, France, Israel and Norway, in addition to its American students from throughout the United States. This enrollment growth from the international marketplace continues a trend being seeing by the school administration. During the summer, a group of 22 students from Mexico, led by a professor from the Universidad de las Americas Puebla, came to TISOH to participate in a special, tailor-made program.

“We’re very impressed by the professionalism and quality of these international students,” commented Timothy Lam, Director of TISOH. “Five years ago when we established TISOH our goal was to offer certificate and diploma programs that would benefit hospitality students worldwide, and it’s rewarding to see such diversity.”

The educational experience at The International School of Hospitality seamlessly combines learning from credentialed industry professionals with practical opportunities to present a cohesive training in one of the most exciting hospitality capitals of the world, Las Vegas. With top hotel properties participating in the programs via guest speakers and site visit sponsorship, students enjoy networking events, shows, receptions and more.

The TISOH’s campus is conveniently located close to McCarran International Airport at 3614 E. Sunset Road, Suite 110. TISOH offers certificate and executive diploma programs that run in the evenings for 16 weeks, in FASTtrack format for 5 weeks, and online learning with rolling admissions.

About TISOH

The International School of Hospitality (TISOH) was founded in 2005 by professors from the University of Nevada, Las Vegas. The mission of the school is to offer practical, short-term hospitality training programs developed for industry by industry. Along with class instruction, most courses include site visits and working internships. The school curriculum includes conference management and event planning, meeting & event catering, event design & production, hospitality leadership and supervision, wedding coordination and design, the art of concierge, art of food and beverage, hotel operations and hospitality human resources. Students may elect to study on site or enroll in TISOH's online courses. The school is an Academic Partner of the American Hotel & Lodging Educational Institute.
